To Whom it May Concern,

It was my pleasure to work alongside Andrew Mallory at Discovery Space Center. Andrew was with us since the inception of our business. He worked alongside of us during the long hours it took to start our business. He brought creative and innovative ideas to our business.

Andrew's official title was that of Creative Director. But being a small business, his duties and responsibilities were vast. He helped to oversee the day to day operations of our Space Center; including Creative Writing, Scheduling, "Flight Directing", Marketing, Website Updates, and Maintenance. Andrew assisted in the management of our staff members, consisting on average of 20 employees.

Andrew brought a great energy to our business. At the end of 2013, we negotiated the sale of our business, and the new owners chose to bring in their own creative team. It is not a decision I would have made, however it was the decision that the new owners made.

We have maintained our friendship since then, and have sought opportunities to work together in another businesses as well. I wish Andrew all of the best in her future endeavors, and know that whatever company hires him will be greatly enriched by his talents and expertise in social media.

Please don't hesitate to contact me directly if you have any questions.

Kindest Regards,
